Outstanding Clubs and Volunteers of the Year Nomination Process

During the 2011 World Conference in Hamburg, Germany, in August, FFI will recognize two clubs and two volunteers for achieving excellence in 2010 and 2011 in such areas as exchange programs, public relations, service and specific achievements.

Please send your nominations in an email to awards@thefriendshipforce.org by June 15, 2011. Include the name and a brief explanation (not to exceed one page) of why that club or volunteer deserves to be recognized. For volunteers, include the person's club affiliation. For clubs, you may nominate your own or other clubs.

When writing your nomination, we encourage you to consider any or all of the following criteria:

Excellence in Programs: During the past year, because of innovative programs, the club or individual attracted new and diverse members, retained current members, motivated members and non-members to serve as Ambassadors and Hosts, expanded awareness of cross-cultural issues and achieved the mission of FFI.

Excellence in Public Relations: During the past year, the club or individual has marketed the activities of FFI to current and potential participants through internal communications such as newsletters, external media such as radio, newspapers, television and the Web; and other promotional means.

Excellence in Service: During the past year, the club or individual has served communities at home and internationally through respectful humanitarian, educational, environmental or related efforts that build understanding and friendships across diverse cultures.

Outstanding Achievement: During the past year, the club or individual has shown exemplary work across a broad spectrum of activities that result in membership growth and diversity, successful exchanges, outreach to home and visiting communities, and visibility for FFI activities.
